KING CAROL CALLS TWO MILLION MEN AS RUSSIANS MARCH PAST CEDED POINT

WILLKIE GIVEN GREAT OVATION AT CONVENTION

G. O. P. Nominee Pledges Fight To Preserve Democracy in Convention.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29 — Pledged to fight for "the preservation of American democracy," Wendell Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee, began today his quest for enough votes to give him the key to the White House next November.

The Republican national convention, with its shouting galleries and stampeding delegates, passed into history with the nomination yesterday of Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon for vice president and a tumultuous reception for Willkie.

All that remained was for the new Republican national committee to meet during the day, induct 30 new members into office, and select a new party chairman.

Invariably, the nominee has the final word about who shall run his campaign. In this case, however, the old national committee had approved the work of Chairman John Hamilton just before the convention met. It recommended that he be continued in the post, but that action was not binding on the new committee.

Official Notification

Although the whole world already knows about Willkie's nomination, and he has received deft hints himself, he will not be officially notified until later in the summer. A special ceremony will be held at Elwood, Ind., where with pomp and ceremony he will be informed of what the delegates did under those burning klieg lights of the Philadelphia convention hall on the night of June 27.

Fully as tumultuous, though minus the straining tension, was the scene that marked Willkie's appearance yesterday to thank the delegates for putting the party standard in his hand and to promise "a crusading, aggressive, fighting campaign to bring unity to America."

Confetti sifted down from air conditioning vents. It clung to his smiling, perspiring face, was tangled into the wavy locks of his hair, lay in heaps upon the platform. A balloon, touched by a delegate's cigaret, exploded into a crumped bit of rubber.

But Willkie paid no attention as he made a short speech.

"I understand that in America we shall have a common purpose at this time that this way of life shall not pass from this earth," he said.

"For the rehabilitation of American economy; for the building of an adequate defense so that no dictator, however strong, may seek to strike; for the unity of our people; for calling again America to its great tradition of progress, I pledge myself to you, and I ask each of you to join me in this great crusade."

Praises Martin

He paid high tribute to the fairness with which Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, Republican floor leader of the house, presided over the convention as permanent chairman, then added:

"I want to say that as your nominee I stand before you without a single pledge, promise or understanding of any kind except the advancement of your cause and the preservation of American democracy."

Willkie was surrounded on the platform by a reception committee which included former Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, the 1936 presidential nominee; Gov. Bricker of Ohio and other governors and outstanding figures of the convention. Neither Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio nor District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York appeared at the convention hall to join in the ceremony which was intended to give an appearance of harmonious unity to the nomination of the 1940 Republican ticket.

Nomination of McNary for vice president was based on a twofold political formula. One reason was that since the convention had nominated so completely a business man for president, it was obviously desirable to give him, as running mate, some one fully and

FIFTH COLUMN DRIVE OPENED

U. S. Starts Active Operations Against Undesirable Aliens; Border Watch Doubled.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 29 — President Roosevelt signed into law today a bill requiring registration and fingerprinting of approximately 3,500,000 aliens in the United States.

WASHINGTON, June 29—Federal agencies coordinated final plans today for the start of active operations against the new public enemies—undesirable aliens and fifth columnists.

The first portion of the campaign gets under way Monday, the effective date regulations which make the legal entry of aliens into the United States more difficult.

A second portion—aimed at illegal entry and infiltration—got the "go ahead" when President Roosevelt signed a bill yesterday providing funds for doubling the border patrol and increasing the maritime inspectors who check up on alien seamen.

The third section calls for proper surveillance of foreigners already in the country. A bill requiring registration fingerprinting of all aliens is on the President's desk. Justice and immigration departments are finishing plans for its enforcement as soon as it is signed.

The alien-entry regulations, operative Monday, require passports or similar documents for entry from all neighboring countries, most heretofore exempt from such requirements.

So far only Bermuda and the Dominican Republic have adopted similar regulations for Americans entering those countries. The Canadian government, anxious to maintain the American tourist traffic, has announced it has no intention of requiring passports for Americans.

To avoid hardships on Canadians and Mexicans who commute across the border for work or other reasons, the regulations have been modified to permit them to enter on their old immigration visas if they hold border identification cards.

Who Will Oppose Willkie? Now Big Capital Question

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 29—Will it be Roosevelt versus Willkie?

If so, who will be the President's running mate to balance the Republican selection of Senator McNary (R-Ore.)?

These were the two big questions in Washington today, as Democrats sought to gauge the strength of the Republican ticket headed by Wendell L. Willkie, New York utilities executive, and looked ahead to their own convention in Chicago two weeks hence.

The answer to the first query rested with President Roosevelt but he has kept mum on his intentions regarding a third term. Ardent third-termers however have been more insistent than ever of late that the turn of events abroad make it imperative he run again.

There is no dispute that Mr. Roosevelt commands sufficient convention delegates for the nomination. He had 707½ votes pledged to him when the last tabulation was made, and only 548 are required to nominate.

The unanimity is not so complete on the vice presidential nomination. Senator Byrnes (D-SC), staunch administration supporter, has been spoken of highly as a likely contender for second place on a third term ticket. But there also has been talk of another Roosevelt-Garner slate. Other running mates mentioned have ranged from Secretary of State Hull to Fiorello H. LaGuardia, New York's fusion mayor.

President Roosevelt had an opportunity to comment on Willkie's nomination yesterday when reporters at his press conference inquired whether he had anything to say on politics.

In a jovial mood, he replied that he thought not since he had been pretty busy on other things.

Asked whether he would have any trouble getting together with Willkie on foreign affairs, he said he would be willing to get together with Willkie at any time.

Famed Italian Flier Dies in Air Battle with British

Italo Balbo, Who Was Banished to Libya by Mussolini After U. S. Flight, Victim of Crash.

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 29—Marshal Italo Balbo, governor-general of Libya, was killed yesterday while piloting a plane over Tobruk, Libya, during British bombardment, an official announcement said today.

The plane crashed in flames, killing all aboard.

Whether the British attack referred to was from the sea or air was not immediately disclosed.

The Italian high command issued the following special communique:

"While flying over Tobruk during an enemy bombardment on June 28 the plane piloted by Italo Balbo crashed in flames. Italo Balbo and the members of the crew perished.

"Flags of the armed forces of Italy are lowered in a sign of homage and high honor to the memory of Balbo, Alpine volunteer in the World war, one of the quadrumvirate of the revolution, trans-Atlantic flier and air marshal who died at his post in combat."

The dashing, colorful, black-bearded trans-Atlantic flier was one of Fascism's celebrities and sometimes was mentioned as a possible successor to Mussolini as Italy's next duce.

Since Mussolini sent him to Libya, however, at the height of his popularity, Balbo's name has been heard less often in connection with possible Fascist succession than that of Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law and foreign minister.

Premier Mussolini ordered flags lowered to half-mast at public buildings and airports tomorrow. Banners in Fascist headquarters will be covered by crepe in mourning.

The Italian broadcasting system was silent for two minutes after announcement of the death.

Marshal Balbo in 1933 led a historic mass flight of Italian planes to the United States.

He received such an ovation both in the United States and at home as a result of the flight that Premier Mussolini was rumored to have been displeased at his rapid rise in popular favor.

Shortly after his return to Italy in 1933 he was appointed to the Libyan post, a move interpreted in some quarters as designed to remove him from the limelight.

DEFENSE TAXES BEGIN MONDAY

Gasoline, Cigarets, Liquor and Theater Prices To Be Increased.

National defense taxes will come home to the average man and woman in Marion and throughout the country Monday.

Their luxuries and amusements, including most movies, will cost a few cents more, generally all along the line. Gasoline prices will go up. The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio has announced an increase of a half-cent a gallon in the price of gasoline from tank wagons and service stations. It is understood that other companies are planning similar action.

Cigarets Up 2 Cents

A check of Marion dealers showed that the erstwhile 15-cent pack of cigarets will sell for 17 cents.

Beer will cost a penny more a bottle, one large dealer said.

Distilled spirits generally will go up in price. An official of the Marion County Liquor Dealers association reported today that most of the present 10-cent glasses will cost 15 cents. A double shot, now 20 cents, will cost 25c. There will still be some 10-cent glasses, however.

On quarts of liquor the tax will vary from 19 to 23 cents, he reported.

F. W. Bacon, manager of the state liquor store, has not been advised of the details of the increases. He did report, however, that some retailers are buying heavily now to escape the tax.

Theater Tickets Up

Admissions also will cost more because of the tax in most theaters. However, on admission prices of 20 cents and under there will be no tax. The tax starts at 21 cents and follows this scale:

On 21 cents—3 cents at the rate of one cent on each 10 cents or fraction.

On 25 cents—3-cent tax.

On 30 cents—3-cent tax.

On 35 cents—4-cent tax.

The Palace theater announced the taxes will be charged patrons beginning Monday. The Marion and State theaters, whose admission prices are 20 cents and under, are not affected.

The Ohio theater management reported today it has not decided what policy to take in regard to the taxes.

BRITAIN PREPARES FOR CLASH WITH JAPS

European Women Ordered To Leave Hongkong.

By The Associated Press

HONGKONG, June 29—Great Britain, in preparation for a threatened crisis with Japan, ordered today the compulsory removal of all European women and children from the Hongkong crown colony in the next week.

Simultaneously, the removal of approximately 200 American women and children from Hongkong was believed decided on by United States officials here. There are at least 4,500 British women and children here, but the number included in Britains' order was not given.

The impending mass flight was taken generally as a sign that Britain would reject Japan's demand for the closing of the Burma route to China, over which Japan charges the Chinese have been getting arms.

Japan was expected to retaliate by attempting to blockade Hongkong or even launching an invasion, observers said.

The crisis was expected within 10 days.

PENSION GRANTED TO CITY PATROLMAN

T. J. Coffey To Leave Force After 20-Year Service.

Application for retirement and pension was filed last night with the police pension board by T. J. Coffey, city policeman, of 130 Garden street. The board approved the application as part of the business conducted at a regular monthly session.

Patrolman Coffey, who joined the department in 1920, will retire July 1. He will receive $102.94 monthly, approximately two-thirds of his regular salary.

The pension board also approved the monthly payroll to pensioners amounting to $1,013.50.

Austin of 387 Silver street early this afternoon, Fire Chief McFarland reported. ORDER RAISES SPECULATION

Capital Wonders if State of Emergency Has Been Broadened by President.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 29—The exact extent of the state of emergency now existing in the nation and the secrecy-veiled plans of the main U. S. battle fleet aroused capital conjecture today.

Three lines in a Presidential proclamation, which accompanied a treasury department order yesterday, raised the question of whether the limited state of emergency, announced by Mr. Roosevelt on Sept. 8, 1939, had been broadened.

The proclamation, after stating that the conditions of Sept. 8 continued to prevail, declared "the existence of a national emergency by reason of the threatened disturbance of the international relations of the United States."

This language contrasted with the restricted phraseology used in the earlier proclamation issued a few days after war smote Europe last September.

President Cites Duties

On that occasion President Roosevelt stated that the conflict "imposes on the United States certain duties" with respect to neutrality and national defense.

"Measures required at this time," the proclamation said, "called for the exercise of only a limited number of the powers granted in a national emergency."

Mr. Roosevelt then proceeded to declare "that a national emergency exists in connection with

GREEN URGES BAN ON NAZIS AND REDS

A. F. L. President Would Outlaw Both Groups in U. S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 29—Congressional action to outlaw the Communist party and the Nazi bund was advocated today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green made the recommendation in an address to the F.B.I.-sponsored national police academy.

"I feel that we are inviting danger, by permitting the Communist party and the Nazi bund to continue to operate openly or secretly in this country against the interests of the United States," he asserted.

He declared the federation he heads "never has been hoodwinked by Communist, Nazi or Fascist propaganda", and added:

"When the congress recently adopted measures to purge Communists and Nazis from relief rolls and to keep an official check on the whereabouts and activities of resident aliens, the American Federation of Labor interposed no objection.

Fighting Reported in Cities as Soldiers Enter Old Rumania

By The Associated Press

ARMED forces of Soviet Russia penetrated deeper into Rumania today, reportedly passing boundaries of territory yielded under ultimatum, and the Balkans trembled under new war alarms as King Carol sped mobilization of 2,000,000 men.

Sporadic fighting accompanied the Russian thrust.

Reports through uncertain communications out of areas jammed with refugees and soldiers said the Red army occupying Bessarabia and northern Bucovina might have crossed agreed limits in error.

Semi-official sources said the Soviet forces were in two towns 15 and 25 miles west of the river Pruth, western boundary of Bessarabia.

Events of war and war-affected developments around the world were the following:

Italy's famed Air Marshal Italo Balbo, governor general of Libya, black-bearded leader of a historic mass flight of Italian planes to the United States in 1933, crashed to flaming death with his crew during a British bombardment of Tobruk, Libya.

Great Britain, facing a crisis with Japan, ordered compulsory removal of all European women and children from Hongkong, British crown colony. United States officials were expected to follow suit.

Japan's foreign minister, Hachiro Arita, warned western powers that Japan would permit no upset in the status quo in East Asia and the South Seas.

The Italian high command said one of its submarines had sunk a 10,000-ton armed steamer and that some 20 British planes on the ground were destroyed in an air bombardment of Marsa Matruh, on the Egyptian coast of the Mediterranean.

Germany's high command claimed the sinking of three British armed merchant ships, totalling 11,000 tons, by a Nazi submarine, while another submarine reportedly sank 38,000 tons of merchant ships.

Appeals To Germany

As Russian troops took over not only the yielded territories of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina but invaded old Rumania itself, the Rumanian government urgently appealed to Germany to make Russia live up to the original agreement.

Germany, Russia's collaborator in many matters by reason of their pact of last August, stood—at least officially—on the sidelines and expressed official unconcern.

But Hungary, watching the Russian invasion of Rumania with anxious eyes, rushed troops to the Rumanian border and threatened an invasion of her own if the Red drive should continue.

Furthermore, Hungarian officials said they had the support of both Germany and Italy in this stand.

In Berlin, however, German official circles scoffed at the idea that any great dislocations were in prospect for the Balkans, but acknowledged that Germany's interest was to prevent a spread of war to a region which is such an important source of raw materials.

As a token of German uneasiness, a Nazi military mission arrived in Rumania's capital, Bucharest, last night, to see that Russia did not go too far.

Report Street Fighting

Street fighting, with perhaps scores of citizens killed and wounded, was reported in Cernauti, Bessarabian city in the area which Rumania gave back to Russia rather than go to war. Communist and anti-Communist residents fought before the Red army got there yesterday afternoon. Then the anti-Communists took to the roofs and continued shooting at the Red troops.

Many Russian soldiers were reported killed at an undisclosed spot when they disregarded the cession limits.

Complete Rumanian mobilization was effective last midnight, for Hungary and Bulgaria both have territorial claims on Rumania.

Officials in Budapest admitted that Germany would like to keep Hungary peaceful, but said that if Russia went too far both Germany and Italy would give Hungary "full support."

Bulgaria, too, flexed her muscles, and the Sofia newspaper Outro declared that Germany would "act" if the Russian occupation in Rumania went past the Prut river.

Russians Report Joy

Tass, official Soviet news agency, and the Moscow radio asserted the Red army troops were received by the populace of the ceded territories with kisses, cheers and thrown flowers. There were no "incidents," they said.

A neutral diplomatic source in London asserted that "a peace move is in the air," and predicted that any Nazi attempt to invade England would await the result.

Nazi planes bombarded Britain again last night and early today, striking at the channel islands of Jersey and Guernsey, at southeast, southwest and northwest England, and at Wales.

The British said 20 persons were killed and more than 30 hurt on the channel islands, which already have been demilitarized and from which most of the population has been removed. Two women were injured in Wales.

German bases on the French coast were raided anew by British fliers.

Rumania Eyes Hungary and Bulgaria Closely as Russia Passes Boundaries

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, June 29—Russia's occupation of Rumanian territories ceded by King Carol was reported transformed abruptly into an invasion of old Rumania today and Rumanian military leaders speeded general mobilization which will place 2,000,000 men in battle array within the next few days.

Lee Street Presbyterian Church To Dedicate Improvements Sunday

$4,000 Remodeling and Repair Program Completed After Two Years; All Debt Paid.

Sunday will go down as a red letter day in the history of Lee Street Presbyterian church

It will mark the first time in more than two years that a worship service has been held in the church auditorium and also will be the occasion of celebrating the completion of a $4 000 repairing and remodeling program

A rededication service will be conducted at night at 7 by Rev Howard L Olewiler of First Presbyterian church His sermon will be on Our Holy House of Praise'

Another cause for jubilation on the part of the congregation and friends of the church who have assisted in the project will be that all of the work is paid for and the church is entirely free of debt

More than two years ago a state inspector went over the brick structure and said that until the sagging room was rebuilt permission to hold services in the auditorium could not be granted

Hold Basement Services

It took the small congregation several years of hard conscientious work to raise enough money to pay for the needed repairs and remodeling In the two year period services were held in the basement Friends interested in the church helped with contributions to the fund

This week the program was completed The major portion of the work was done by Marion contractors Members of the congregation pitched in and helped do some of the painting scrubbing and revarnishing and today the church stands in good condition

The roof was repaired a new ceiling has been put in all new electric fixtures have been installed the seven Sunday school rooms and large Sunday school assembly room have been repaired doors and windows have been remodeled and woodwork inside and out has been repainted

A new furnace room was built in the basement which also was thoroughly cleaned and the basement kitchen renovated

On the committee in charge were Clyde Tumbleson R L Gortner Henry Grimes Roy Gherman and Charles Blair

Summer Schedule

Throughout the summer months the following schedule of services will be in effect Sunday school 9 a m Christian Endeavor societies 6 p m worship 7 p m

The church was organized in January of 1907 under authority given by Marion presbytery It was the outgrowth of a Sunday school started in March of 1903 in a rented house near the north end of Lee street

John Landon an elder in First church was appointed by the First church session to serve as superintendent and held the position for five years He was succeeded by John W Caldwell one of the first elders of the church

On easter Sunday of 1908 the Sunday school hour was changed from afternoon to morning and preaching services in the morning were instituted

In the autumn of 1903 following the beginning of the Sunday school in the spring Charles W Hamilton was employed as lay minister In the spring of 1905 Rev C W Loxsie was employed by First church to conduct preaching services at Lee Street and Forest Lawn churches both mission organizations During the pastorate of Rev S C Bates who started his work at Lee Street in 1907 the present church was built Rev Bates raised most of the money approximately $12 000 and the last $1 000 was secured through the efforts of Charles Turner an elder of First church The church was dedicated free of debt

Since Rev James M Fisher resigned several years ago to serve church in the south Rev Olewiler of First church has conducted Sunday night services at the church

The Fifth Column

A SERMONETTE

Text 'He that is not with me is against me'—Matthew 12 30

THE term Fifth Column" originated in the recent Spanish war A general had four columns of soldiers marching to take a city He said he could succeed but for a fifth Column on the inside whose influence would help the enemy He greatly feared their influence would defeat him

Fifth column folks have figured terribly in the recent losses of the Allies They are also giving the loyal people of this continent a headache

Jesus in His endeavor to save the world has had to reckon with them from the beginning He was sold to the cross for thirty pieces of silver by a fifth column betrayer

The Master in our text does not hesitate to put the ignoble brand upon them He leaves no doubt as to who they are If they are not with Him they are against Him Their place is in the fifth column group

The people of a Christian nation in a testing time like this should take prayerful notice of the firm attitude of Jesus as to His friends and His enemies A religious statistician recently reported findings on the religious situation in America that are revealing Of the one hundred and twenty five million people in the country sixty million make no pretense of having any religious faith at all Sixty five million belong to some church—Catholic Protestant or Jewish But of these only fifteen per cent are faithful All the others are rebellious against Christs rule or indifferent toward it Their influence and behavior give terrible help to the hosts of evil in this country If our text means anything Christ numbers them in the fifth column

IT IS a solemn thought that this fifth column crowd is helping the enemy to defeat Christs plan for our nation But a thought more serious still is this Just as our nation is trying to purge itself of individuals who are guilty of 'Un American Activities Christ says in passages and parables that He will purge His Kingdom With judgment that is uttering the goats are to be separated from the sheep he tares will be separated from the good wheat the branches not abiding in the vine will be burned

With a pastors loving solicitude let me exhort this city and this nation to get out of the fifth column Let America have under God a new birth of loyalty to Jesus Christ in this sobering day

NATURE'S BLESSINGS ARE FOR ALL PEOPLE

The bright charm of sunny June days should temper the sorrow of the bereaved as well as bring added gladness to carefree hearts

We should all share with others our happy thoughts and peaceful moments even as we expect a consoling communion with others when we come upon grievious days.

We bring to those who have suffered the loss of a loved one the comforting attendance of a staff experienced in the ways of human helpfulness.

Adam seemed to be everywhere at once

YESTERDAY Immerman, the waiter seems agitated at the table conversation. After lunch, Felicia drives to Chicago to do some shopping and Kay goes to the Post Exchange Immerman is there buying a regimental insignia like the one connected with the first robbery

CHAPTER FIVE
One Paying Guest

I WANTED to tell Adam the incident but two second lieutenants found me first and established themselves firmly and dutifully at my side addressing their attentions so obviously to the major's girl that I felt about eighty instead of twenty four When Colonel Pennant arrived they sprang to their feet and moved chairs and carried drinks, then effaced themselves like well-bred children haloed with knowledge of duty well done

The girls, Colonel Pennant explained were still in the city

You couldn't get them to leave until the stores close he went on cheerfully I long ago gave up trying to understand the feminine lust for shopping And when you consider that they have the extra thrill of helping choose a trousseau I shall be surprised if they don't get locked in.

Felicia is in town too I said I had yielded to his insistence and let him order a glass of sherry for me I looked at him over it and thought again what an attractive person he was. I feel a little improper being here in bachelor quarters without a chaperone I don't believe I've thanked you and Mrs. Pennant for being so nice about letting me have rooms here I assure you I won't abuse the privilege

He looked slightly shocked You don't need to tell me that, he said gravely with a trace of old fashioned gallantry We're honored to have you here We're only sorry we couldn't offer you our own hospitality At any other time—

He was going to tell me of the plans for the wedding which was to be in September when the gong rang and we went in to dinner Immerman was not there A strange waiter took care of us But I still had no opportunity to speak to Adam about him

The Club

So many things were to happen at the club during that fortnight that it occurs to me I now should describe it in some detail On some posts the bachelor quarters and the officers club are separate but at Fort Michigan they occupy the same building—a big new building of gray stone shaped rather like a broad flattened letter H The main entrance approached by a semicircular drive is in the central bar of the H Across this section from wall to wall of the flanking wings stretches the glassed veranda furnished in brightly patterned willow with a ping pong table at one end

Behind the veranda is the large room usually furnished as a lounge with easy chairs and reading lamps and tables invitingly spread with magazines but which is cleared for the fortnight hops the meetings of the Ladies Bridge club and for occasional other private viewings given parties of the commissioned general From the panelled walls of this room framed colored paintings of officers in uniform old and modern look benignly down

At the back of the lounge there is the broad main stairway and on either side of it a cloakroom and a powder room To the entire front of the lounge as you enter from the street is the chromium and red bar its walls decorated with a photographic mural of a cavalry regiment at the charge Beyond the bar is the billiard room

The building faces north toward the parade ground the distant barracks and beyond that the even more distant stables The east wing overlooks a row of officers quarters and the park and playground which stretches behind them for perhaps a quarter of a mile to the lake and the officers beach The mess hall and the kitchen regions are on the ground floor of this wing Above them and above the central structure the bachelors have their rooms The west wing is principally for guests

The guests are mostly army too Officers on leave from Middle Western posts with their wives and families spending two weeks or a month at the lake shore living in furnished suites of two rooms and bath taking their meals in the bachelor mess Wives of officers on duty at the post send their overflow guests to the club Visiting inspectors officers enroute from station to station may stop there overnight The accommodations are not inexpensive which is one reason perhaps why during this last fortnight in August I was the only paying guest

Jefferson Tack

The guest wing is approached from the lounge by a narrow corridor behind the bar and the billiard room but it has its own doors at front and back for easier access to the street and the long garage behind the club where cars are berthed My suite was on the ground floor on the extreme northwest front corner as far as humanly possible removed from the actual bachelor quarters Next door to me was Felicia Bridewell's suite of rooms

My bedroom window and the side window of my sitting room overlooked the tennis courts My front window faced the western boundary of the parade ground and the road in front of the club where it turned at right angles and passed Headquarters and the Post Exchange before it finally left again and led out of the post

I retired to my rooms when dinner was over and did not appear again until I heard Adam's voice on the tennis courts Then I went out and sat on the side lines watching

For a team that had not played together before Gerald Beufort and Adam were giving the pot champions a little trouble Colonel Pennant stood at the net and smashed grimly opposite him Adam's long arms and legs seemed to be everywhere at once as if he had as many as a crab Jeff Tack taking it very seriously was putting everything he had into his famous serve and the Englishman was returning it with happily smiling ease and a cheerful Well played for every point scored by his opponents.

Jefferson Tack was the disconcertingly grim young lieutenant that the Pennants were so fond of He had sat at our table at dinner in the place usually reserved for Captain Jones who someone said had gone to Chicago to see his wife Jeff had been no addition to the party devoting himself almost exclusively to his food responding briefly when addressed then lapsing into his customary silence If he was excited about the imminent arrival of his fiancee he gave no evidence of it

I studied him now contrasting him in my mind with two of his classmates who were playing mixed doubles with a couple of boarding school kids on the next court The two men the two girls bore an odd resemblance snub noses round freckle spattered faces brown arms and legs and something indefinable that stamped them as immature

But not Jeff

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O, June 29—Donald Van Atta 21 of Columbus, a senior at Ohio Wesleyan university is in serious condition at Jane M Case hospital here suffered burns Thursday resulting when a tractor he was refueling at the university farm south of Delaware caught fire and ignited his clothing

Some of the gasoline he was pouring into the tractor tank spilled over into the manifold and fire blazed up It is believed gasoline from the funnel sprayed out on Van Atta's clothing when he jerked away from the flame

With flames from his clothing searing his body Van Atta jumped from the tractor and started to run across the field Agonized by the burns he did not stop running until Bert Hughes, son of A E Hughes who manages the university farms, caught him and threw him to the ground Using the only available first-aid remedy to put out the flames Hughes covered Van Atta with damp earth

Van Atta was taken to the office of a Delaware physician who ordered him to the hospital immediately The physician said second degree burns covered the entire upper part of Van Atta's body including his face and that there were numerous burns on his legs Hughes was slightly burned on the right arm when he put out the flames

Van Atta is one of several students employed during the summer months on the university farms The farm on which the accident occurred is located just east of Perkins observatory

CLARIDON TWP. MAN TAKES OWN LIFE

LeRoy C. Epey Is Suicide Victim; Rites Tuesday.

LeRoy C Epley, 52, member of one of the pioneer families in Claridon township, fatally shot himself this morning at his home four miles east of Marion on the Edison road

Coroner M F. Axthelm returned a verdict of suicide from a gunshot wound. Despondency over ill health is believed to have been the cause

Mr Epley had complained of a constant head pain for several weeks, his wife told the coroner, and when he came to Marion yesterday on business she urged him to see a doctor When he returned home she asked his if he had seen a physician and he replied only to the effect that there was no treatment possible for whatever was causing the pain

This morning he ate breakfast as usual, helped with the feeding of the large flock of chickens on the farm and went across the road to look at a field of hay He returned to the house about 8 30 while his wife was in the granary got a 22 caliber rifle went to the kitchen and shot himself through the left temple Coroner Axthelm said death was virtually instant

Mr Epleys parents George and Mary A Ziegler Epley both were born in Claridon township and his grandfather and father were among the large owners of land in Claridon township He was born in the township on May 28 1888 on the first farm west of his present home His marriage to Miss Mae Rider took place on Jan 23 1915

Mr Epley was a member of Calvary Evangelical church and was a member and past master of Progressive grange

Surviving are the mother whose home is across the road from the homestead farm the widow a daughter Virginia Mae who was graduated this spring from Claridon High school a sister Mrs Ray Klinefelter of west of Green Camp and a brother Ellis Epley, who lives on the homestead farm

Friends may call at the home after noon Sunday

The funeral will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p m at the home and at 2 30 at Calvary church Rev P F Smoke pastor will officiate Burial will be made in Marion cemetery

ANNOUNCEMENT

Starting on July 1, the banks of Marion will open at 9 a. m. and close at 2.30 p. m. daily, except on Saturday, when they close at 12 o'clock noon.

This change of hours during which banks are open to the public is caused by the increasing amount of detail work which must be accurate and complete at the end of each day.

The banks also must keep their operations in line with government laws and regulations, including the wages and hours act.

The banks appreciate the growing number of persons who are using them for financial service. In order to maintain the high standards of this service, bank workers must have more time after and before banking hours to handle the thousands of deposits and checks and other items which come to them.

The undersigned banks request the public to cooperate with them in adjusting routine business to the new hours.

Running Mate

THE vice presidential candidate's campaign function is to round out the ticket Nomination of Sen Charles L McNary of Oregon satisfies that requirement He is from a far western state, his legislative specialty has been agriculture and his liberalism, which once was a handicap to him in the party complements the liberalism of the presidential candidate Wendell Willkie

The vice presidency rises and falls in prestige, according to the abilities of the men who hold the job Vice President Garner has given it a boost and if Sen McNary were to be his successor he would give it another one For years he has been highly regarded in congress as a legislator a legislator—a deviser of strategy instead of a tub thumper As minority leader in the senate it has been his job to check the majority with a lively and capable even though out numbered opposition A measure of his shrewdness is the fact he devised the plan of letting the Democrats themselves fight it out with President Roosevelt on the court packing bill rather than let it become a partisan issue As presiding officer of the senate Mr McNary would never condescend to be a mere gavel swinger

The candidate for the vice presidency must be selected, of course, with the thought of what kind of a president he would make It seems sufficient to remember that in Oregon a great many Americans have been thinking and saying for years that Charles L McNary couldn't be beaten From a political standpoint he is a perfect choice for second place on the Republican ticket From the standpoint of his usefulness if the ticket wins his record tells the story The high regard of those who know him best satisfies all other requirements

Honor Among Grabbers

RUMANIA newly seated on the Nazi bandwagon, becomes ironically the first inside victim of the movement the bandwagon is leading Russia which has followed Germany's example of grabbing whatever isn't nailed down, blandly grabs a chunk of Rumania

This follows Russia's seizure of the Baltic states, which Germany was unable to prevent It signifies that when the rule of dog eat dog is applied to international affairs in contrast to the rule of collective security, there is bound to be endless chaos Bound by no rule except the rule of force violence is inevitable and endless

Germany will take what it can get So will Russia So will Japan So will Italy When they no longer can prey on non-dictatorial victims they will prey on one another International gangsterism's ethics are no higher than the ethics of ordinary gangsterism which is to say it is bound by no ethics at all Rumania which sought to save its bacon by joining up with voracious Germany has lost part of the bacon to voracious Russia

Congress in Recess

THOUGH technically in recess congress to all intents and purposes had adjourned mentally for the duration of the conventions If and when it comes together again in full force with a will to perform its function members of both parties will be expected to snap out of their mental vacations and get going

Congressional response to the circumstances created by the war has consisted so far of cheerful authorizations for spending money There is nothing new about that freehanded spending started in 1933 on the impulse of domestic emergency and continued without interruption up to the current session Tentative moves toward economy went with the wind like almost everything else which had been projected for 1940

It cannot be argued reasonably that all congress has to do is vote Aye on spending proposals to provide adequate national defense with perhaps a few halfhearted gestures toward new taxes to sooth the apprehensive brethren Obviously the only way the United States can afford to spend billions for new arms is to produce a greater amount of wealth Pump priming with borrowed water makes no more sense in this emergency than it made in the often proclaimed relief emergency

Yet, the fact is that congress has taken no steps to ease the restrictions which were hampering production of wealth unnecessarily nor even any inclination to consider such steps. It has taken its cue from the White House and the White House cue always has been to appropriate more money There is a tremendous lot of work to be done by congress before the United States can be called prepared to tackle an emergency. Perhaps the Republican convention will remind congressmen there are other secrets of defending the country besides appropriating another billion dollars, or two, or three, which hasn't solved anything yet.

News Behind the News

Republicans Unaffected by Rumors of War Developments from Washington.

By PAUL MALLON

PHILADELPHIA June 29—Now these following can be told

Shadows portending possible great international events to come kept pestering the leaders and delegates to the Republican convention — and all came from Washington Most disturbing of these events was brought verbally by a non political emissary with Roosevelt administration connections He suggested the administration had received some indications Neville Chamberlain might be restored to British power in order to negotiate a peace with Hitler.

Paul Mallon

Republican top men tried to check it, but received from their sources only the counter suggestion that such stuff generally originated at Battery Place New York supposed fountain source of domestic German information

Even though the info mation swept the hall by grapevine the leaders and delegates did not deviate the interest from their purpose The whole convention had been steeled in advance against war rumors from Washington Platform drafters went so far as to refuse to read the papers while at their work They knew nothing of the published reports concerning shifting of the fleet

The Bee

Prying news out of political men at press conferences has become a sharp cross examination game like info mation please except reporters do not say please They have become accustomed to receiving evasive noncommittal responses and in fact have come to judge statesmen by their ability to handle themselves under inquisitorial fire

For newcoming public men they sometimes apply a test which they describe as 'the bee' They applied this inquisitorial bee to Willkie at the height of the convention One reporter asked all embarrassing questions he had been able to devise and then came to me I embarrassing final question While the convention was struggling with bitter pro Allied anti Fascist advocates the reporter asked Willkie if he would favor Republicans Stimson and Knox in his cabinet if elected

The Hoosier shot back the response that he had always avoided personalities in his campaign

No word of ridicule or scoffing had escaped his lips and he did not intend to break the practice

News-men looked at each other, recognizing a familiar escape, but Willkie went right on

'So while I won't say anything for publication I don't mind giving you a straight answer off the record

'No

Campaign Jokes

It is customary for workers of candidates to spread stories against rival candidates among delegations before the balloting Possible prize of the convention was one the Taft people used the nominating night when they found the galleries overly crowded with Willkie sentiment I hear, they said jokingly, 'the New York stock exchange adjourned an hour early so all the boys could come down to cheer Willkie

A more serious one they might have used with more effect apparently escaped their notice Persons waiting outside Willkie's hotel room (where he received newsboys and moguls) noticed emerging at 1 30 a m a group from the Lehman Brothers Wall Street house which had appeared some weeks ago before the senate banking committee in opposition to the investment trust reform bill

The Gallery

Impartially sifted available evidence failed to confirm the supposition that Willkie campaigners completely packed the galleries for his nominating demonstration More than 10 000 persons were in the gallery and only 600 general admission tickets were passed out by the Willkie arranger The others represented tickets equally distributed mostly by the Philadelphia mayor and variously divided convention officials 1 000 were given out by the Taft people a smaller bloc by the Dewey devotees)

Gold Planks

There is an important story behind the omission from the platform of the usual Republican declaration for a fixed gold price The platform said this time merely that gold should be returned to circulation Platform drafters had reason to believe changes in the gold price may be necessary to keep out whatever Hitler seizes in his conquests

Philippine Problem

The convention was counseled privately by a Philippine leader that Japanese expansion in the far east would necessarily cause independence to come long before it scheduled time in 1946—which he regretted He reasoned that naval strategy will require the U S to cut the Philippines loose

HITLER'S PROBLEM

Can Europe Eat Without American Aid?

By MORGAN M BEATTY
Associated Press Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON June 28—The men who shape the foreign policy of the United States are working temporarily on the assumption that Herr Hitler is not only the political and military kingpin of all Europe save Russia but the economic master as well

So they assume too that it's up to the boss to feed 350 000 000 mouths And the republics of this hemisphere are interested in knowing how Hitler proposes to do it

Even in good times if all the food raised on the continent of Europe (Russia excepted) were evenly divided each person would only have 80 per cent of what he needed

In normal times America makes up Europe's deficit in raw materials Something like half of the American nations exports go there

The American policy makers assume that Germany and Italy believe the distress occasioned by the loss of markets in Europe will be so great that almost any trade proposal by the continent will be accepted in the Americas as a matter of course

Three Obstacles

But three great forces are at work to prevent such an easy solution of Europe's economic problems. The first of these is Dame Nature The second is war And the third is a new and vastly broadened Monroe Doctrine now in the making

Taking these forces in order

1 Europe suffered the worst winter in a half century Spring was late cold and wet Winter wheat suffered Crop prospects are about half as good as usual Authentic reports to the U S department of agriculture indicate Rumania crop of winter wheat is 40 per cent below normal and rye is 70 per cent under Rumania is Europe's most important breadbasket

2 Ever since Hitler came to power in 1933 Europe has been using the cream of its substance for armies munitions and machine of war Even Sweden has been making munitions and armaments for other powers The switchover from wartime economy to peacetime economy always has been disastrous After the World war bankruptcy was practically universal International debts went unpaid The depression resulted

German financiers already have foreseen the disaster ahead, and in every captured country, even in Germany rediscounts rates have been lowered—which is an attempt to produce easy money. Easy money is the first step toward inflation

3 The new Monroe Doctrine is not only a military and political instrument to keep European and Asiatic powers out of this hemisphere it is also being forged rapidly into an economic instrument to prevent economic penetration For economic penetration now is Willkie's Nomination Seen As Call for Breaking Away from Old Guard of G. O. P.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WENDELL WILLKIE was nominated because enough people realized that the Republican party could not afford to approach the world of 1940 as if this were 1920 and 1932 and 1936 Yet that was precisely what the professional politicians and the old leaders were about to do until they were overwhelmed by a great tide of popular opinion

Walter Lippmann

On foreign policy they could think of nothing better than a rather less intelligible and a decidedly more illiterate version of the platform of 1920 On domestic questions they got no further than an evasive and equivocal restatement of the campaign slogans of 1932 and 1936 Had these defeated leaders and highly unsuccessful politicians retained their control of the Republican party one of two things would have been the inevitable result Either they would have gone down to a defeat more overwhelming than that of 1936 or they would have conducted a successful campaign to demoralize public opinion by appealing to complacency self indulgence and fear It was an exceedingly bad dilemma for the party and for the nation For even if the old guard had been defeated in November they would nevertheless have disunited the nation and paralyzed the government and destroyed American prestige as a great power in the extremely critical months which are now beginning

And had they won in November after making the kind of campaign which their platform and their preferred candidates foreshadowed they would have devitalized the nation to a point where effective armament and a lucid and resolute defense of American interest would have been almost impossible

There was no way out of this dangerous dilemma except to ignore the old leaders and the old manipulators and to choose a new leader Fortunately a gifted leader was available and fortunately the people knew it

Mr Willkie is under no political obligation whatsoever to the old guard Mr Willkie's title comes directly from the people who despite the stratagems and tricks of politicians in the end were truly represented by the delegates Mr Willkie was not nominated in order to be another old guard Republican candidate but because the people believed he will not be an old guard Republican Since his mandate comes from the people and not from the professionals his mission is not to reflect the views of the party bureaucracy but to shape the policies of the party by going before the people as a national leader

It would be nonsensical almost hypocritical to pretend to believe that the Republican party deliberated at Philadelphia and agreed upon a set of principles and a national program

The old guard drafted the platform and with the exception of a few passages in Governor Stassen's speech did practically all the talking That mess of verbiage is if any one cares to examine it seriously irrelevant or self-contradictory when it is not intentionally meaningless It was the outpouring of men who having lost sight of the world they live in being about to lose control of their party were too rattled and frightened to think clearly about anything They had no national policy much less a set of principles and therefore the immediate task of the new leadership of the Republican party is to clear away the debris and shape the policies of the party to the principles of its candidate

If this should seem to some unduly severe criticism of men who have generally meant well and often have done well in matters where the highest interests of the nation are not involved let them consider the position taken by the

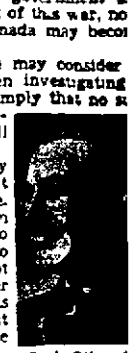
Strange Picture

Considering the Possibility of Brit ish Government Moving to Canad

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, June 29—Of all the "possibil contingencies" that your government and mine is considering as a result of this war, none is more strange than that Canada may become the seat of the British empire

No matter to remote you may consider the state department has been investigating as a possibility for weeks simply that no surprise may crop up in the coming months for which we will not be prepared



Jack Stinnett

What's more in the foggy realm of possibilities, this isn't considered so terribly remote. The question is, of course, can Germany deal a blitzkrieg to the British Isles similar to those with which she has swept aside a half a dozen smaller nations and crushed France as though that supposedly great military power were no more than a papier mache Graustark? And if the Nazis can, will England carry on?

Winston Churchill has said that England will. There are other straws in the wind Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and her family have been sent to Canada More than 20 000 children, refugees from the danger zone of the British Isles are being sent to Canada

In the state department here it already is considered a certainty that if the capital of the British empire is established in the New World it will be at Toronto (Ottawa is the capital of the Dominion in case you have forgotten) Toronto is a hedge-hop from Buffalo, N Y or an easy sail to the northern shore of Lake Ontario

It's Tough Going

Now off the record here are a few of the things that your state department is discovering

1 Canada cannot support a very large population Its present 11 000 000 or so is strung out in a narrow band along the northern border of the United States curving slightly upward at the ends Since 1900 it has had immigration numbering something like 6 500 000—but many of these and of those already there have found the going hard that 5 000 000 Canadians have sought a 'fuller life' in the United States during the same period

2 Canadian industry exists only because of a high tariff wall (This isn't true of all industries, but it applies to most of those which are competitive with industries in other nations)

3 Canada is heavily dependent on American capital. There is it is reported, some four billion dollars of American money invested in Canada almost twice as much as is invested by the capitalists and investors of Great Britain.

4 Canadian fortunes and the very livelihood of the populace depend upon world trade Particularly trade with the United States and the British Isles which take about 80 per cent of Canada's exports. (If trade with the latter were suspended because there no longer were a British Isles Canada would lose almost half its export market)

5 The Canadian public debt already is in the vicinity of $700 per capita (compared with approximately $450 per capita in this country even when you take state and municipal debt into consideration)

6 Canada's average annual wheat surplus is 260 000 000 bushels What could be done with it

It's Anybody's Guess

These aren't half the problems regarding Canada that the state department, behind the scenes is considering but they serve to make the point that it's no matter of simple grade-school arithmetic

If King George VI takes up residence on the uptown beach of Lake Ontario it will be the first time (with a few trivial exceptions) that any monarch has ruled from the western hemisphere but that isn't what's bothering the state department

What's worrying them now so that it may not worry you in the face of any contingency is what can the United States do if it should come to pass

Your guess and mine is as good as theirs the moment

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F DODDS

Many persons familiar with the history and purpose of the founding of the Republic Liberia in Africa do not know that there is an adjacent colony of Negroes known as 'Ohio in Africa' It was founded by the Ohio Colonization society about 1850

President Roberts of Liberia announced in May 1850 the purchase of a large tract of land on the west African coast The colony was immediately annexed to the Liberian Republic

Funds for the purchase were supplied by members of the Ohio Society as follows Charles McMicken of Cincinnati $5 000, Samuel Gurney of London $5 000 and Solomon Sturges of Putnam $1 000 The territory included about 200 miles of coast line

Free Negroes from Ohio assembled at New Orleans and sailed for "Ohio in Africa," where small weather-boarded houses, built on five acre plots awaited them.

Clermont-Ferrand, the prospective new capital of defeated France, is a place of many historical associations.

Americans who served in France during the World war will remember it as the place where most A E F artillerists were trained with French 155-millimeter guns. France's great artillery range is there

Some 2 000 years ago it was the scene of a victory over Julius Caesar Vercingetorix, the great Gaul, defeated the Roman Legions there

Clermont Ferrand has its place in fiction, too Novelist Hervey Allen picked it as the opening scene for his "Anthony Adverse", probably because he—the novelist, not Anthony—was there during the World war.

WILLKIE WILL DELAY ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

G. O. P. Nominee Will Wait Until After Democrats Meet.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 29 — Wendell L. Willkie indicated today he would delay until after the Democratic national convention his formal acceptance of the Republican presidential nomination.

During a talk with reporters, Willkie said he had not finally decided the date for the address in his home town of Elwood, Ind., but probably would speak after the Democrats met in Chicago July 15, adopt their platform and nominated their candidates

Willkie received newsmen in his hotel apartment attired in a dark red dressing gown. He said he would spend a brief vacation resting in an undetermined place

I have no other design or purpose the Republican nominee added except to get some sleep

Willkie preparing to leave on a yacht trip with Roy Howard publisher said that he had several personal matters to clear up on his return to New York

Told by reporters they would have to follow him on his vacation Willkie asked

Where would you fellows like to go"

He expects to return to New York from his yachting voyage Sunday night

WILLKIE

expertly informed as to the legislative processes of government. McNary is Republican floor leader of the senate

The other was that since Willkie rates as a business man and New Yorker despite his Indiana birth and Ohio residence at Akron for a decade it was desirable the vice presidential candidate should be some one with appeal to the farm belt.

Real Mid Westerner

They say a Hoosier never really becomes naturalized in residence in a metropolis and Willkie though he rose through the complete pattern of American success stories from waiting on table in college at Bloomington to legal practice in New York was certainly a good sample today as he marched triumphantly down the long middle aisle of this convention by squads of police and moved out on the rostrum beside his pretty wife.

Mrs Willkie in a dark blue dress with white trimmings and one of three open air white hats over the right eyebrow with a vivid orchid on her left shoulder was obviously the more uncomfortable of the two though Willkie himself seemed just a little subdued as he first stood in the glare of the lights before those 20 000 people who had given him this opportunity and responsibility

She tried to smile and did rather embarrassedly but mostly just stood there dazzled by it all while photographers rumbled all around the edges of the platform popping off flashes and Willkie raised both hands in salute to the crowd

Cheers rocked the hall and Willkie flanked by Chairman Joe Martin and an escorting committee consisting partly of Govs John Bricker of Ohio Stassen of Minnesota and Baldwin of Connecticut and Alf Landon stood restlessly with most of his weight on one leg He seemed more rested than when he received the word last night and the dark circles had left his eyes

His blue suit was musty his soft collar apparently taking a beating from the heat and he was not made more comfortable by wearing a vest

Confetti Flood Released

As he waited hundreds of balloons were let down from the roof and then one of the most cuckoo phases of public demonstration took place Some well meaning but otherwise dopey guy let loose several tons of colored confetti discs directly over the platform and the press section

Martin finally introduced him amid a roar and Willkie at once showed why he was a natural before a crowd and before a mike His voice is deep and emphatic and in his first phrase he got the old midwestern accent going by pronouncing the word political as if it were p'litical

It didn't take him long to say what he had to say nor did it take him long to move the crowd He spoke of his own emotion and sense of dedication to the cause you've asked me to lead'— of adequate defense of unity— that this way of life facing its most crucial test in history shall not pass from this earth"

He told how simple doctrine appealed to Americans and tossing his shaggy head as his voice rose he thrust home his points with sharp downward gestures of his right hand

'We must win we cannot fail if we stand together in one united fight!" he shouted

The speech over Willkie stood on the platform for several minutes obliging the camera men with more poses and even demonstrated a little showmanship when he went to the rear of the platform and got Alf Landon, and the two of them posed shaking hands and beaming

As a final touch Willkie in the sort of impromptu flash of humor that has made him much liked here, hustled over to the mike and said "Now I'm going to sleep for a week"

BERLIN PUBLICATION WARNS AMERICANS

Told Attitude Likely To Govern Future Trade.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN June 29—The publication "Berlin - Rome - Tokyo," issued under foreign office auspices, warned North and South American republics today that their attitude may determine the future economic relations of the "new Europe with the Americas" The article was sanctioned by Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop

Europe comprising the "greatest purchasing market for every producer of raw stuffs and foodstuffs" is fighting in order that it never again may be cut off from the remaining economic areas of the earth by British despotism the publication said

It could see itself forced to secure and organize its vital needs where they cannot be touched from the outside Whether and in what measure this self-security must be applied will depend greatly on whether we must in the long run deal with a friendly or hostile America"

The magazine asserted that an examination of the previous course of the western continent necessarily leads to striking the balance of diplomatic economic and moral leadership of the United States

What their Roosevelt government has to put before the Republics in all these fields is not clear the magazine asserted Diplomatically in the course of recent years it has succeeded in making essentially worse its relations to Germany Italy Japan and the Soviet Union

Signs of Peace Hunted as War Threat Increases

By DAWITT MacKENZIE

Europe continues hopeful speculation on the possibility of peace growing out of the rapidly changing conditions.

The lull in the German attack would tend to give peace feelers an opportunity of circulating and may in fact be calculated in part to do exactly that South constant pulse taking is a part of practically every war

Yesterday both Germany and Britain got rocked back on their heels by developments which likely will have a marked effect on the trend of affairs.

Russia's invasion of Rumania can be taken largely as a strategic move against Germany Its immediate effect will be to deprive the reich of badly needed supplies may easily precipitate a Balkan upheaval and might mean war between the Nazis and Bolshevists a gift from the gods for Britain

Blow to England

England on the other hand received a heavy blow when General Mittelhauser French commander in Syria decided that his army of 500 000 would lay down its arms to Germany

This great force was the keystone of the Allied land defense of the Near East and was vital to possible operations against Germany through the Balkans There also has been growing doubt as to how much other French colonial support England would receive and whether she would in the end secure the French fleet which might mean the difference between defeat and victory

Obviously anything can happen under such conditions—peace or utter chaos This is a bad time for the speculator to gamble on futures

While we are on the subject of war and peace I feel bound to call your attention to another event of world importance

The League Passes

On this last day of June in the year of the Great Hitlerian blitzkrieg we have to record the death —or at least the passage into a state of suspended animation—of the League of Nations as at present constituted

Secretary General Avenol early this week notified all employes of the organization that their resignations must be in hand by today

Thus the first concerted effort of man to preserve the peace of the world by a congress of foreign states comes to an untimely end It has been killed by war (among other things) and the great marble palace which workers for good will built on the shore of Lake Geneva as a monument to universal brotherhood now becomes the mausoleum of the league in its present shape

The league did many good deeds It is credited with having averted several wars It put Austria Hungary and Greece on a sound financial basis It curbed the drug and white-slave traffics reduced child labor, improved international health and in many other ways contributed to progress

Politics Creep In

But its critics say that heavy politics crept into the league—that hostile blocs of nations were formed within the membership

To my mind the league was born either too soon or too late It made its advent at a time when the world was in a ferment which was a sure breeder for changes by force of arms It is difficult to envisage any organization which could have survived this period of upheaval

I watched the birth of the league at Versailles, and spent long hours with Lord Robert Cecil (now Viscount Cecil of Chelwood) who was one of the main architects of the organization to implement the Wilsonian dream As long ago as the fall of 1937 Lord Cecil told me in effect that the league had better pull up its socks if it wanted to stay in business

He felt that grave damage had been done the prestige of the league by the failures of the organization in handling the Manchurian and Chino-Japanese situations, and Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia

Anyway the league did try to make good Better luck next time'

JUST THINGS

Festivals

If you have a big yen for ice cream festivals it's certainly your inning now. But how elaborate they have grown. In fact they're almost a full course meal, and for some folks they're akin to a banquet. Time was when a gal and her beau went to the ice cream social, well, they "et" ice cream with perhaps a piece of cake for a chaser. Sometimes there were strawberries, and the purchaser was torn between choosing the ice cream or the berries. Sometimes they compromised by taking both, but not often. But now, look what you face. Ice cream, chicken sandwiches, pie, cake, and coffee, with such tidbits and candy bars, popcorn, suckers and what have you, on the side. There are folks who seem to be out for a perfect record when it comes to attending these festivals, and they say "we're going to a festival," they're not just meaning ice cream and cake. They'd scoff at just one chicken sandwich. The record to date is five at one sitting. (Remember the season is young, wait 'til we strike our stride.) That, in addition to coffee, cake and ice cream. There are plenty of runners up in the crowd. There are couple tied for "three's" in the sandwich line, a couple are one and one-half up on the sandwich champion when it comes to cake, and a couple are way out in front on the home made ice cream proposition. Towards the end of the festival there's considerable bartering for half pieces of cake and half of dishes of ice cream, to say nothing of the bookkeeping problems that face the waiter, but to date, there's been no hard feelings, no errors, no fatalities. When there are bigger and better ice cream socials it's a safe bet you'll find them there.

Red Cross

SOMEHOW or another we're always running across something that appeals to us about the Red Cross. And just in case you might wonder what the original Red Crosser, Florence Nightingale though we're quoting something she said to women in general. "To you all I would say, look upon your work, whether it be an accustomed or an unaccustomed one, work, as a trust confided to you. This will keep you alike from discouragement and from presumption, from idleness and from overtaxing yourself. Where God leads the way, He has bound Himself to help you go on the way."

Bachelor Buttons

AND what do you think of this? The Bachelor Button family hasn't always been the upright, straightforward outfit we've always believed them to be. According to tradition as handed down by the peasants of Europe the bloom, innocently enough perhaps, aided and abetted young men in shying away from the matrimonial hurdle. The bloom was to be picked early in the morning with the dew still upon it. It was then placed in the pocket where it remained for 24 hours. Upon being removed, if it were still bright and fresh, still "true blue", the wearer would be happy with the girl he loved. If the flower faded and died in his pocket, the marriage would bring misery and unhappiness. Naturally, the flowers could not retain their freshness and color under such treatment, so what have we, "bachelor buttons."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Armed and Disguised, Madge and Lillian Start for the Leslie Rendezvous.

"Hurry as fast as you can!" I adjured him, and then fought my clamoring impatient submission while I waited for his return and Lillian's and Katie's.

Katie was back first, but Lillian was but a minute behind her, and when she saw the things our little maid had brought at my request, her eyes widened approvingly.

"I take it we get into the masculine outer raiment and take our own along for emergency instead of the other way round," she said.

"I thought it would be better that way," I said. She nodded vigorous approval, and put herself into one of the outfits, while I was getting into the other.

"Lock all the doors leading into this kitchen except the outside one," I directed Katie, "and lock that as soon as we're gone. Then you may raise the shade on the window by the door and watch the car go across the fields toward Ticers. When it is out of sight—"

"I no vatch eet clear out sight," Katie said hysterically. "Eet bad luck. You all get kill."

"Then watch it as far as Ticer's fence," I said. "But if you catch even a glimpse of Mr. Graham or Mr. Underwood, you must put down the shade. Better not put it up, just look around the side of it. My father has given strict orders to have no one at the windows, but I want you to be ready to let us back in, if we run into any trouble on the way to Ticer's."

"Okay," Katie said, her face alight. "Dere dot Jeem now."

Her ears had signalled their message only a fraction of a second before our own. Lillian and I moved toward the door, and I opened it cautiously, first a crack, and then, as I saw nothing but the gaping rear doors of the station wagon, I pulled it wide open.

Off to the Wars

"No matter who asks, say you know nothing," I adjured Katie, and then Lillian, who needed no injunction, was at my side, and as we went through the door, Katie was already shutting it and I knew that it would be locked in another second. We fairly scurried into the wagon and shut the door after us. Then we crouched on the floor, as Jim got down from the seat, and, moving with apparent deliberation but real haste, took two sacks of apples from a pile outside the door, and opening the rear door of the wagon again, thrust them in, closed the door, and clumbed up to his seat again.

"Looks better to be putting something in," he said. "Where do I go? Ticer's?"

"That's right," I said, "and look in the mirror to see if you see anybody following us."

"Not a soul so far," he said, and repeated the assurance at intervals until we reached the Ticer farmyard.

"Drive around to the back" I told him, "and find out from Mrs. Ticer where her husband and Jerry are."

Mrs. Ticer, rosy, buxom, smiling as ever, came to the door, and we heard her tell Jim that her husband and son were away.

"Then everything's safe," Lillian said. I nodded, and we rose from our cramped positions, and alighted from the car to the accompaniment of a suppressed little scream of surprise from Mrs. Ticer, who, however, is too well acquainted with the frequent bizarre happenings at the farm in which she is often an invaluable ally, to be much distributed by our sudden Jack-in-the-box appearance and our disguises.

"I declare! You gave me quite a turn," she said. "Anything I can do?"

"Yes," I told her. "Please be on the watch, here at the back door, and keep one of your barn doors open. We may want to dash in here, hide the car in your barn, and ourselves in your house if we get a chance to get out of the barn."

Mrs. Ticer wastes no time in words.

"Everything will be ready, and I'll be on the watch," she said. "I suppose Jim's going with you."

Ohio Shows "Four Sons"

"Brother Orchid," Starring Edward G Robinson, Also on Bill for Week.

The timely film drama, "Four Sons," now at the Ohio theatre Wednesday, will be followed on Thursday by Edward G. Robinson's new satirical comedy, 'Brother Orchid.'

Don Ameche, Eugenie Leontovich, Mary Beth Hughes, Alan Curtis, George Ernest and Robert Lowery head the cast of "Four Sons." It offers Miss Leontovich her first screen role after starring on the stage for 15 years in New York, Paris and London.

Simplicity is the keynote of the picture, which has been acclaimed for its emotional and dramatic power. One reviewer wrote:

"It is difficult to conceive of anything — spoken, printed or photographed—better qualified to bring forcefully to their (the people of the United States) full consciousness the myriad advantages of their lot as democratic citizens when compared to the unfortunate peoples of war-torn, dictator-ridden European nations. It finds its locale and motivation in the fate of Czecho-Slovakia."

Archie Mayor directed the picture, which also was made as a silent film, from an original screen play suggested by a story by I. R. Wylie.

Bolstering the Robinson picture cast are Ann Sothern, Humphrey Bogart, Donald Crisp, Ralph Bellamy, Allen Jenkins and a score of less known players.

The picture takes Robinson back to the satirical comedy of his "The Whole Town's Talking" and "A Slight Case of Murder." An unprincipled genius in his racket, he has a burning ambition to acquire what he terms "class." The entire film's done on the light side.

IN "FOUR SONS" NOW AT OHIO

Popular Singing Stars in Palace Feature Film

MacDonald and Eddy Head Cast of "New Moon"; Wallace Beery Has Leading Role in Western Drama.

Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, favorite singing team of thousands of fans, are together in "New Moon," a musical romance set against the colorful background of early New Orleans, booked for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Palace. Wallace Beery's new starring picture, '20 Mule Team,' will be the attraction Thursday through Saturday.

"New Moon" is the first MacDonald - Eddy picture since "Sweethearts," which was immediately followed by each making a concert tour across country. The story deals with the romance of a lady of French royalty and a fugitive from political justice.

Popular Tunes

Among the musical offerings are such all-time favorites as 'Lover Come Back to Me," "One Kiss," "Wanting You," "Rondolet," "Marianne," and the stirring 'Stout Hearted Men." The supporting cast includes Mary Boland, George Zucco, H. B. Warner and Grant Mitchell.

The Wednesday picture, a comedy, 'You Can't Fool Your Wife," featuring Lucille Ball and James Ellison, centers around a young married pair afflicted with mother-in-law trouble and with a marital crisis when the husband is suddenly yanked from his stodgy accounting job to entertain a playboy.

Though referred to as a "20 mule team," the famous train actually consisted of 18 mules and two horses, the latter nearest the wagon, with the driver riding the "nigh wheel horse" and not the wagon itself. Beery's chief job was to learn to handle the team in preparation for his role of a muleskinner. The picture is a saga of the old borax teams and the muleskinners who drove them and thousands of tons of borax out of Death Valley in the 1890's.

Use Original Wagons

The original high-wheel wagons which hauled the borax went back into service while the picture was being made. Reputedly the strongest wagons ever made, the vehicles weigh 7,800 pounds each.

Noah Beery Jr. plays his first role with his uncle. Marjorie Rambeau plays the role of a hotel and saloonkeeper to whom Beery considers himself virtually engaged and Leo Carrillo plays an Indian "swamper" and henchman of Beery.

Tracy Film Here Again

Popular Star at Marion in Return Showing of "Northwest Passage."

Recommended entertainment comes to the Marion Sunday and Monday in return showings of Spencer Tracy's 'Northwest Passage." The picture was made from Book 1 of the novel by the same name, written by Kenneth Roberts, and was filmed in technicolor. It's exciting, vivid drama, with Robert Young and Walter Brennan heading the supporting cast. Ruth Hussey and Isabel Jewell have the only feminine roles and they're brief. The story is of the famous Major Rogers' trip to St. Francis to wipe out the Indians who made devastating raids on New England villages. The other picture on the bill will be "Stop, Look and Love," featuring Jean Rogers, Robert Kellard and William Frawley in a comedy of a girl who triumphed over a matrimony-minded mother, with the help of an understanding dad.

Considered by many one of the better dramas of the year is the Charles Laughton-Vivien Leigh film "The Sidewalks of London," which will be brought back Tuesday and Wednesday. The story deals with the "buskers," picturesque entertainers of the London streets, and one of them in particular, Laughton, who refuses to admit that "busking's" palmy days are past. His sweetheart, Miss Leigh, leaves him to climb to stage fame. Another feature picture "Curtain Call," with Barbara Read, Alan Mowbry and Helen Vinson, will be on the bill. It has a love versus career theme.

'The Ghost Comes Home," a hilarious comedy of a henpecked husband who "turns the tables" on his tormentors will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday on a double bill with a William Boyd western, "Hidden Gold." Frank Morgan, the featured player in the comedy, is supported by Billie Burke, Reginald Owen, Ann Rutherford, Donald Meek and Nat Pendleton. When the story closes the henpecked husband, Morgan, not only is not dead as his family and townspeople believe, but he's the town's hero.

HITLER

recognized as a forerunner of political and military conquest.

At the Conference of Panama last year the 21 American republics formed an intra-hemisphere financial and economic advisory committee. And now that the loss of Europe as a market is implied in undercover threats from Berlin and Rome, the committee is going into action.

Solid Front Proposed

The first proposal to reach publication is a plan to form an all-American corporation or cartel to buy up with United States dollars the surpluses in the United States and Latin America, and force European bargainers to deal with a solid front of American nations — instead of picking off business men and nations one at a time and playing them against each other.

If that all-American corporation is formed in Havana this summer and gets down to business—and reaction in Latin America is universally favorable—the Hitler economic bloc in Europe won't be able to get what it wants on its own terms.

The British Empire is not available, as yet as a reservoir of supply. Russia hasn't enough raw materials for her own needs, and her political tack of recent weeks indicates she wouldn't send them to the rest of Europe under Hitler even if she had surpluses. So that leaves the American nations as the best source of supply for Europe.

American foreign-policy makers tell you off the record that they have no desire to starve the people of Europe. But if American surpluses are going to be used for relief in Europe, they want them so labelled and hope to make Hitler tell the people who receive American relief that his system did not produce their food.

Unofficially, an American representative in Berlin already has been told by the German undersecretary of agriculture that Germany has no surplus of grain to feed the millions of Europe this winter.

The American case is based on the belief that Hitler will have a hard time explaining how Nazism is the greatest of all systems, when starvation and famine and bankruptcy begin to spread over Europe.

STARS OF "NEW MOON" NOW AT PALACE

Nelson Eddy and Jeanette McDonald, stars of "New Moon," at the Palace today through Tuesday, are pictured in the inset, with a scene from one of the dramatic moments in the story.

"Torpedo Raider" on Double Feature Program at State

"Torpedo Raider," a film of naval warfare reminiscent of the Graf Spee disaster, comes to the State as part of the double-feature bill for Sunday-Monday. Barry Mackay plays the lead role of Albert Brown, who has been brought up in the tradition of the British Navy. Betty Balfour has the feminine lead. Co-featured with this saga of the sea is "The Pace That Kills."

"Calling All Marines," and "Behind Prison Gates," take over the State screen Tuesday and Wednesday. The first is a red-blooded version of life in the United States Marines, featuring Donald Barry and Helen Mack. Brian Donlevy is the featured player in the prison picture and opposite him is Jacqueline Wells.

Laurel and Hardy come to the State in "Flying Deuces," part of the double bill arranged for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Jean Parker is with them. "Gentlemen From Arizona," shares the three-day billing.

Harvesting Cereal Crops for Hay Recommended in Some Instances

WOOSTER, O — There are times when it may be desirable to harvest the cereal crops for hay When the common meadow crops have failed it may be necessary to provide a quick substitute, and the cereal hays may be considered At other times it may be desirable to harvest a badly lodged cereal crop for hay A lodged cereal crop is likely to smother the grass seeding in unless it is removed promptly A lodged crop seldom produces a satisfactory yield of grain of good quality Badly rusted wheat may also produce grain of poor quality and late-sown oats may not fill well some seasons Harvesting weedy cereal crops for hay before many weed seeds ripen may help to prevent the spread of weeds over the farm

An acre of oats cut for hay will furnish about the same quantity of feed nutrients as would have been obtained in the grain had the oats been threshed explains L E Thatcher of the department of agronomy of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station Oat hay is not a substitute for oat grain however, because the grain is a more concentrated feed

Oat Hay Leads

Of hay for feeding to dairy cattle and sheep should be cut when the kernels are in the milk to soft-dough stage. Horses and mules will make good use of oats cut more mature In some sections of the country it is a common practice to harvest oats a little on the green side with a binder and feed as sheaf oats to horses

Wheat is somewhat inferior to oat hay when both are cut at equal stages of maturity Wheat cut in the early milk stage of the kernel and well cured is about equal in protein content to oats cut in the soft-dough stage

At the experiment station in one experiment wheat harvested just when coming into head contained on a dry matter basis, 12 per cent of crude protein By the time the wheat kernels were in the soft-dough stage the crude protein had dropped to 9 per cent and a week later when the kernels were in the dough stage it was only 7 per cent crude protein

Beards Spoil Barley

One serious fault of barley hay is that the beards may cause sore mouths in livestock The beards cause less trouble if the barley is cut fairly mature or when the kernels are beginning to harden because at this time the beards are brittle rather than tough and wiry

Extra care should be taken to get cereal hay thoroughly cured before putting it into storage At the time of cutting for hay the cereals are fairly rich in sugar and if they are stored with too much moisture molds are likely to develop and damage the hay

Fixed Copper Compounds Coming Into Increased Use As Spray for Plants

County Agricultural Agent Has Copies of Late Bulletins on Hand for Growers.

If you're having trouble keeping insects out of your vegetable garden, you might profit by calling at the office of County Agricultural Agent Homer Porteus for some advice and a copy of the latest bulletin on insect control

Mr Porteus announced today he has on hand a supply of the most up-to-the minute publication by the state extension service, "The Control of Garden Insects and Diseases." His office also receives periodic bulletins frequently

Insects Active

The latest of these concerns the dusting and spraying of cucumber, melon squash and potato plants. From all indications received at his office the garden insects are rather active and numerous this summer The wet weather is believed to have increased certain types of plant disease also

Leaf blights and spots of tomato, celery, beet carrot, cucumber, muskmelon and beans can be controlled fairly effectively with a copper - containing fungicide Bordeaux mixture was and perhaps still is the most widely used fungicide in this group Bordeaux is however rather injurious to various plants and for this reason and others the so-called insoluble or fixed copper compounds have been coming into more and more general use each year for the past 10 years according to J D Wilson of the botany department of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station

These materials are slightly more expensive than B to dx mixture but have numerous advantages such as convenience in mixing and application and these offset the price difference

Four Classifications

The fixed coppers can be divided into four general groups the basic chlorides basic sulfates oxides and miscellaneous The chlorides are possibly the most efficient as fungicides but the difficulties encountered in the manufacture make them somewhat higher in price than most of the others Certain members of each classification such as Copper Compound A Tribasic Copper Basicop Cuprocide and Coposil can be found on the shelves of various dealers in Ohio

The copper content of the fixed copper materials stated as metallic varies from about 20 to 85 per cent The amount of copper present determines to a large extent the quantity of a given compound to be used in 100 gallons of spray material or in 100 pounds of a dust mixture Up to the present spray formulas have been prepared to contain two pounds of copper as metallic in 100 gallons of spray or 8 pounds as metallic in 100 pounds of dust It is possible that these quantities will be reduced somewhat in future recommendations

Formula

A typical fixed copper spray formula for use on most vegetables would contain 4 pounds of the copper compound (based on 50 per cent metallic) 6 to 8 pounds of wheat flour and the proper amount of some good spreader in 100 gallons of water A fungicide dust formula for use on all vegetable except the cucurbits can be prepared from 12 pounds of the fixed copper (again based on 50 per cent metallic) 15 pounds of flour and 73 pounds of talc or other suitable filler such as finely ground clay gypsum or whiting For the cucurbits, including cucumbers, squash and muskmelons, the formula is modified to contain less copper and an insecticide is added One cucurbit formula includes 8 pounds of a fixed copper compound (5 per cent metallic), 15 pounds of flour 7 pounds of calcium arsenate and 70 pounds of filler (talc)

Growing in popularity as an insecticide is rotenone dust for use on melons and cucumbers until the vines begin to run

For potatoes the following bordeaux mixture is advised 8 pounds of copper sulfate and 12 of hydrated lime 100 gallons of water and two pounds of calcium arsenate Or a copper lime dust of 20 pounds of copper sulfate 70 of fresh hydrated lime and 10 of calcium arsenate may be used This is for control of late blight tipburn hopperburn flea beetles and the Colorado potato beetle If flea-beetles and Colorado potato beetles are not a problem then the calcium arsenate should be omitted

Potato plants should be sprayed or dusted as soon as they are growing and applications should be made every five to seven days while plants are growing rapidly Later applications should be made every seven to 10 days until the vines are dead or until the potatoes are dug

SALES TAX REPORT FOR MARION AREA LISTED

Ohio Farmers Urged To Check On Effect of Soybean Crops on Soil

COLUMBUS, O — Ohio farmers have been so busy increasing the acreage of soybeans in the state that too little attention has been given to the effect the crop has upon the soil in the opinion of John A Slipher extension agronomist at Ohio State university

Slipher pointed out that Ohio produced 827 000 acres of soybeans in 1939 or 14 acres of this crop for every one planted in 1924.

Soybeans, the agronomist declared deplete the soil less when harvested for grain with a combine than when the crop is cut for hay Stubble and roots left by soybean hay fall far short of replacing plant food extracted by the crop he said

A 30-bushel crop of soybeans contained 90 pounds of nitrogen but a part of this is taken from the air by the plants if nodule-forming factoria are present in full numbers on the roots

The 30 bushels of soybeans will remove as much phosphorus and three fifths more potash than 65 bushels of corn would remove Slipher said

The Ohio State university agronomist recommended that farmers apply 300 pounds of fertilizer containing - to 4 per cent of nitrogen and at least 12 per cent each of phosphorus and potash per acre if they plant grain crops following soybean hay The same fertilizer should be used on grain following soybeans harvested for their seed but the potash in the fertilizer can be reduced 6 per cent he added

Soybeans have an exceptional ability to loosen soils. This is of marked benefit on stubborn soil such as Paulding clay but may be detrimental on soils already in good tilth and which are on slopes where erosion may occur Slipher said

Slipher recommended that Ohio farmers revise their crop rotations to include soybeans rather than to continue to produce them outside the regular cropping pattern

Reds Cuffed by Cubs, 3 to 2; Margin Over Dodgers Fades to One Point

Fine Pitching Highlights Battles; Red Sox Lose to Senators.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Pitching baseball writers are in the habit of quoting the immortal John McGraw as 75 per cent of the ball game" Days like yesterday in the major leagues make the statement easy to believe

There were no individually spectacular mound operations but ten teams were in action and averaged only eight hits apiece All but two of the starting pitchers finished

The upshot of all this fine flinging was roughly that the Brooklyn Dodgers moved within one point of the Cincinnati Reds in the National league .444 to .343 and the Boston Red Sox lost ground in the American

Wyatt Gives Five

Whitlow Wyatt pitched the Dodgers to a 2-1 decision over Dick Errickson and the Boston Bees Wyatt gave five hits and struck out six finishing the eight inning rain-shortened struggle with four hitless frames Errickson permitted Brooklyn only seven safeties but four of these were bunched in the fifth when the Dodgers got all their runs

Then Jake Mooty an expert at hurling under the electric lights came along with a six-hitter for the Chicago Cubs last night to edge out the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 Chicago nicked Big Paul Derringer for 11 blows and scored all its runs in the first two innings Mooty kept the Reds scoreless until the seventh and coasted home

Still groggy from the whirlwind encounter which they lost to Chicago the Reds looked to Jim Turner or Bucky Walters to defend their slim nine hold on top position in the National league today

Claude Passeau with a 7-7 record will be on the mound for the Cubs

Taking up the battle after their eastern foes where the going was plenty tough, the Cincinnati club last night saw their lead over second place Brooklyn fade to a single percentage point

Homer Wins

In another night game Fiddler Bill McGee of the St Louis Cards whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-2 with seven hit hurling Lou Novikoff who was a pitching hero Lefty Ken Heintzelman matching McGee until the seventh when Wild Horse Pepper Martin hit a home run with the bases loaded

There were only three home runs in the big game program and two were in this contest Elbie Fletcher hitting one for Pittsburgh

Dutch Leonard made his knuckle ball do tricks as the Washington Senators squeezed past the Boston Red Sox 4-3 in ten innings and moved out of the American league cellar

The New York Yankees missed a two game winning streak their longest since June 15, by beating the Philadelphia Athletics 4-1 The As gave the game away with four errors to spoil a six hit pitching job by Bucky Ross

Double No-Hitter Goes To Indianapolis; Confident Work Will Give Him Back Control.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI June 29—Johnny Vander Meer whose strides to pitching fame were among the most spectacular in baseball said goodbye to his Cincinnati teammates today and headed for the minors

Saying farewell before heading for Indianapolis of the American Association took plenty of courage after the hours he had worked overtime trying to regain his control but Johnny told friends he'd be back with the Reds soon

"I realize that the only way I can help myself or this club is by getting better control The only way to get that is to work hard," he said

"I am glad of the opportunity to get regular work As soon as I have four or five nine-inning games under my belt I expect to be back with the Reds again"

Manager Bill McKechnie said he believed that with steady hurling the former Midland Park, N J, youth would master the wildness which has held him down the past two years.

VANDER MEER

All the other clubs waived on Vander Meer and made possible his option to Indianapolis with whom the Reds have a working agreement

Vander Meer established his two successive no-hit no-run games record on June 11 1938 against Boston at Crosley Field, and on June 15, four days later, in Brooklyn.

Coach Ivan Greene of Cleveland East Tech is in a jubilant mood these days. His powerful schoolboy track team annexed one of the easiest state championships ever captured.

I think the team we beat is the greatest high school team I've ever seen, pronounced Greene.

He says Harold Lansdale's 220 yard hurdle record, which has refuted the opinion voiced by some experts that coach Greene would not bother with anyone who would be a hurdler less than 6 feet 11 inches tall.

Lane is only 5 feet 8 inches tall, but he certainly proves the theory that you have to be tall to be a champion hurdler.

The temporary injunction was granted in the court of Judge P. H. Weiland here this week and presented the county auditor from making the required transfers of territory.

While the court action of the rural board was expected members of the county board stated today that they have every reason to believe the injunction will be dissolved after a hearing and that the Gilead and Congress township districts will be eliminated thus closing the seven one room schools remaining in the county.

The board has withheld appointments to district boards in five districts dissolved several weeks ago when the consolidation plan was agreed upon. The five districts are Mt. Gilead, Perry Rural, Congress, Gilead township and Cardington.

If the courts uphold the right of the county board to redraw the district lines there will remain only eight districts in the county, Mt. Gilead, Edison, Iberia, Cardington, Marengo, Chester ville, Spain and Johnsville.

old guard while they were still in control of the convention.

Muddle headedness in statesmen has become fully as dangerous to the lives and fortunes of the people as muddle headedness in a general or in an admiral. Sleep walking in politicians is as dangerous as sleep-walking on the bridge of a ship at sea. If the officers and men who are our first line of defense were as undisciplined and demoralized as unaware and as irresponsible as the politicians who control them still think it quite all right to be they would no be excused with an indulgent cynicism. The politicians have abused their privileges long enough and now they need to be reminded sternly that their old slovenly ways are no longer good enough. It is now time to have done with the kind of political behavior which has ruined every other democracy on earth and there is no time left for the old monkeyshines.

And that I believe is the belief of the men and women who rose up this week and nominated Wendell Willkie.

Business Heads Toward Highest Level Since 1929

Mid-Year Survey Shows Markets in U. S. Reacting to War Demands.

BY FRANK MacMILLEN
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK June 29—American business crosses the halfway mark of 1940 with factory wheels spinning at the fastest seasonal rate in three years and prospects that war demands and domestic rearmament may soon push activity to the highest levels since 1929.

The European war has dominated the business scene since hostilities broke out in September but the enormous recent successes of the Nazi blitzkrieg have made it an ever-increasing factor in the calculations of business men and investors, as energies of the nation were turned to making the United States a formidable military power.

Few industrialists and speculators appear to have called the turn of events precisely in the business world as a result of the struggle. Much of the first half of 1940 was spent in a readjustment to the fact that European purchases of war supplies did not come on fast or in such big volume as had been expected.

Ten Billion Lost

This was reflected in the movement of the stock market, which reached a peak in its first reaction to the war late in October, then moved sidewise and later downward to a bottom early in June.

When the first impact of the total war hit the market with the invasion of the Low Countries, prices crashed in one of the most severe bear movements in the history of Wall Street. Total quoted value of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange lost more than $10,000,000,000 in less than two weeks, and bonds were affected securities many billions more.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 20 per cent in value in ten trading days, before stock steadied.

The course of industrial activity had followed a roughly similar course. Many lines of activity had been speeded in autumn on the theory that Allied buying here would be on the scale of 1918, although it took the collapse of France at the end of nine months of war to bring British purchases to their peak.

Heavy Industry Pushed

This foreign business coincided with the rush to rearm America and gave heavy industry its greatest push since 1917. The aircraft and steel plants of the nation were whirring along at or near capacity as the half year came to a close and motorcar factories were booming in unusual resistance to the normal summer down trend.

This activity appeared to be spreading rapidly to other lines of business as the second half of the year began. Retail trade seemed to be pitching up with the rush in factories after a spring lag.

Most observers felt that still further improvement lay ahead. Long-pent up purchasing, the dissipation of many idle channels of trade during the war, the rearmament race here was expected for the time being to take up most of the slack caused by the loss of customary foreign markets.

Most observers felt that still further improvement lay ahead. Long-pent up purchasing, the dissipation of many idle channels of trade during the war, the rearmament race here was expected for the time being to take up most of the slack caused by the loss of customary foreign markets.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics in Washington said:

If the European war continues active it seems fairly certain that industrial activity during the last half of 1940 will be higher than during the first half.

The trend of share prices appeared to lend weight to this point of view.

Measured by The Associated Press average the market reached its lowest in two years at 3[illegible]0 on June 10 when it had become fairly obvious that the French defense was collapsing.

Arms Plan Starts Rise

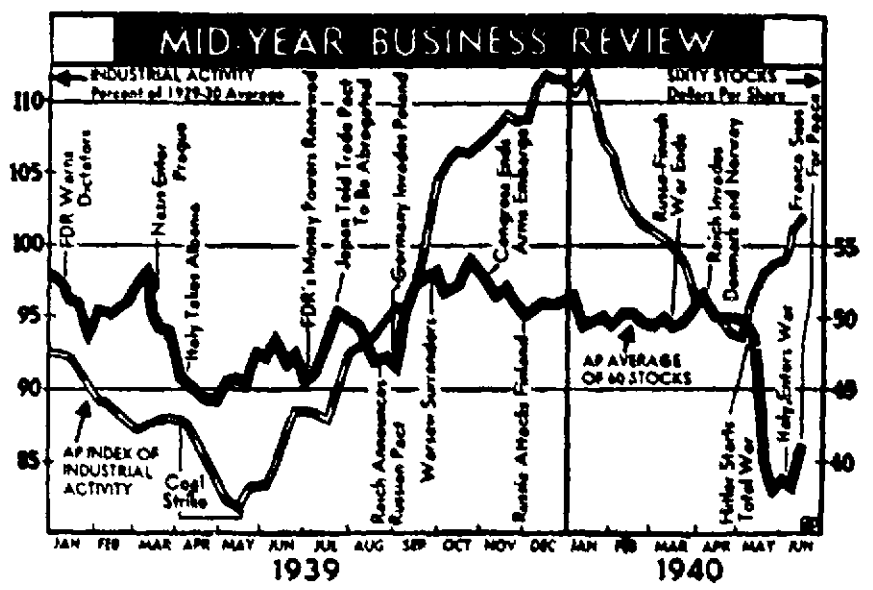
The course from then on was generally upward as investors and speculators appeared more and more interested in the effects on business of the many billions of dollars the U. S. government was planning to throw into its arms effort.

The steel industry operating at around 90 per cent of theoretical capacity was generally figured as near its maximum practical activity as the half year ended.

The production of automobiles and the movement of freight by the country's railroads likewise were the greatest since 1937.

Commodity markets swung with the war tide in much the same way as stocks. There was an autumn bulge as speculators and industrial consumers rushed to buy. But when it became apparent that the conflict was getting a slow start prices quickly subsided though to levels a little better than at the outbreak of hostilities.

Wheat nearly doubled in value to above $1.16 a bushel in the autumn buying surge but is now under 80 cents. Cotton got to near 11 cents a pound but now is only a bit above 9. Typical of imported commodities was rubber which rose from 16 cents a pound to above 21 and is now in the neighborhood of 10.



Industrial activity and the stock market both headed upward after sharp mid-year dips.

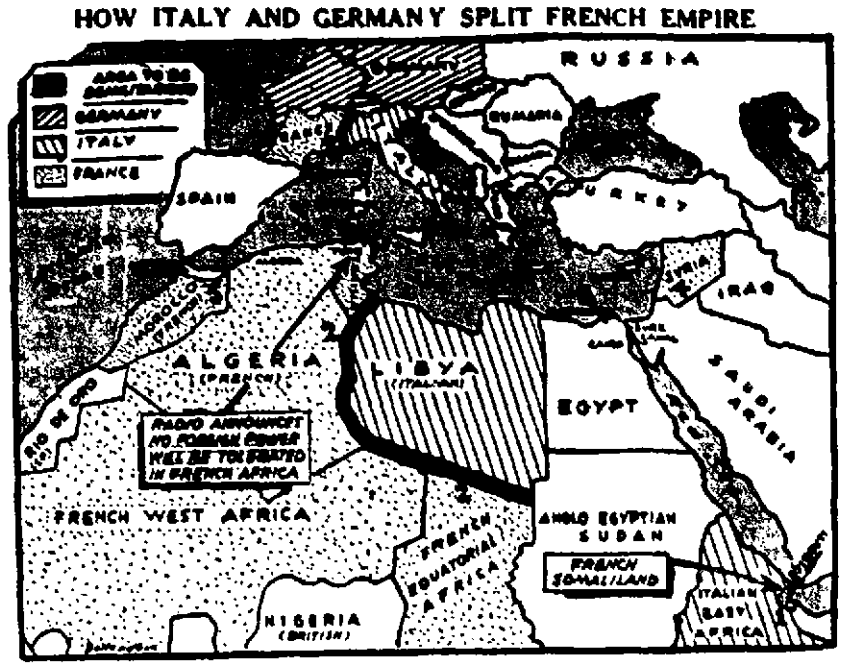
HOW ITALY AND GERMANY SPLIT FRENCH EMPIRE



Crushed by Germany and forced to submit to both Hitler and Mussolini, more than half of France proper is occupied by the Nazis under armistice terms Italy gained control of Djibouti (1) and the railroad to Addis Abbaba. Italian armistice also called for demilitarized zones (2) 50 to 120 miles wide between France and Italy and French and Italian possessions in Africa and demilitarization of French naval bases in the Mediterranean. Terms call for surrender of the French fleet, but most of it was reported in eastern Mediterranean (3) with the British fleet. French colonies were reported ready to continue fight, with the French army in Syria (4) to be nucleus of the battle force and Gen. Auguste Nogues in Morocco (5) prepared to defend north Africa. Final peace terms await conclusion of war with Britain.

War Boosts Demand for Birth Certificates

People who want to prove that they were born in the United States are keeping probate court clerks busy these days in what is probably the greatest demand for birth certificates in the history of the country.

Requests for certificates, which have been rather high since the advent of old age pensions and social security legislation took a big jump several months ago shortly after the war broke out.

Clerk of Courts Carl F. Haberman, whose office gets many of the requests although it has nothing to do with them, said the reason lies in a reported regulation requiring that only American citizens may work on government contracts.

Requests Handled Daily

Judge Oscar Gast of probate court estimated that birth certificate work now requires half the time of one clerk, six or more requests coming in each day. It is necessary to look back through ancient records and then make a certified copy of the certificate.

Probate court has birth records only from 1867 to 1908. Since 1908, when a bureau of vital statistics was set up at Columbus, birth records have been kept there. Births must now be reported by physicians to local registrars. Clearing officers in Marion county are the county health office and the city health office.

Persons born after 1908 must write to Columbus to obtain copies of birth certificates, officials said.

During the years from 1867 to 1908 births were recorded with the help of tax assessors who were supposed to report to probate court the births in their districts in the preceding year. The system was very faulty and many births were never reported at all. A large number of those which were reported were turned in incorrectly with wrong names, wrong dates and other errors.

For persons whose births never were recorded there is no way to obtain a certificate, officials said. For a few years it was possible for a person to bring witnesses into court and swear to the place and time of birth and a certificate would be issued. However, it was discovered that some persons were putting this privilege to illegal use by obtaining birth certificates for persons living in foreign countries so that aliens could come into this country as American citizens. Judge Gast has heard of a certificate being sold for as much as $1,500 in Poland.

In addition to the demand for birth certificates because of federal work regulations, there is also some demand from persons wishing to travel into Canada and other countries where proof of American citizenship is valuable.

STOCK BUYING SLOWING TODAY

Many Traders Step Aside To Await Developments in War and Trade Situations.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 29—Buying demand faltered in today's stock market and many traders stepped aside to await further developments in politics, business and the European war.

A portion of yesterday's rally seeped into the list at the start, when fractional gains were registered in most departments. At the close prices were spotty with several leaders down a shade to around a point.

Dealings were inconsequential throughout. Tranfers for the two hours approximated 200,000 shares.

Wall Street, generally, retained much of its optimism engendered by the Willkie presidential nomination but it was realized the campaign had a long way to go. Business news remained a sustaining factor but even here mild skepticism was in evidence.

Among restraining influences listed in brokerage quarters were Possibility of a nearby devastating German blast at England, chances of an early peace involving important alterations in the nature of American export trends, and practical certainty of a thorough revision of the federal tax structure before the end of the year.

Steels were listless as doubts arose regarding an expansion in next week's mill operations.

Among resistant stocks were Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Great Northern, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Montgomery Ward, International Mercantile Marine and Sperry.

Lagging were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, Westinghouse, General Electric, Loft, Kennecott, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Douglas Aircraft and Glenn Martin.

Bonds were uneven, as were commodities. "Free" sterling weakened in terms of the dollar.

WHEAT PRICES SKID IN LIQUIDATION MOVE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29 — Wheat prices fell two cents a bushel, corn as much as 3 cents and rye more than a cent today in general liquidation of grains prior to the delivery period next month.

All Rye and some oats contracts reached new lows for the season while wheat quotations came within ¼-¾ cent of the lowest levels since last September 1.

Enlarged marking of new winter wheat in the southwest caused some of the pressure in the pit but favorable weather conditions, particularly for corn, and the unsettled European situation were important bearish factors.

Wheat closed 1¾-2 cents lower than yesterday, July 74¼-⅛, September 74⅝-¾; corn 1¾-2¾ off, July 58¾-⅞, September 57¾-1; oats ⅛-¾ lower.

Boston Wool

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, June 29 — Domestic wools in Boston have been decidedly slower this week than in the previous week, especially when comparison is made with the early part of last week. For the most part quotations were quite firmly maintained. Concessions, however, were available on some offerings because of the slow demand and the weakness of prices in South American wools. Graded combing bright fleece wools were quoted at 84-86 cents, in the grease, for fine delaine, at 80-82 cents for half blood, and 76-80 cents, in the grease, for three-eighths and quarter blood grades.
